Girls, Girls, Girls. That's right. The main event.

High school will mark the beginning of your meaningful role transition, from boy or girl to teenager. The important milestone of your young adult years. So much will happen and yet will never happen. Remember, you're right.

All right, down boys -- before you get all hyped up you should know this fact: There are no girls. Nothing. Just a big ol' male ego.

1. RELAX. If you don't conquer some of your insecurity and suppress some of your fear about girls, you're in for a massive headache.

Here's why: Truth is, girls are just as nervous about all of this as we are. They're just hiding it better.

2. X-OUT DATING GIRLS WHO SAY "I CAN'T JUST BE FRIENDS." This is a fact. This is the only time in your life, unless you're gay, that such a statement will make you nervous.

It makes you queasy, doesn't it? Girls are the other sex, and you can't help but feel you should at least be able to communicate with them.

Before I tell you about my own experience and try to advise you accordingly, the rest is up to you. And to you I say, see you later.

JERK, BE A JERK.

The halls and classrooms are full of people as possible. They may be doing what they're doing, that's all.

If you don't believe it, just ask around. If you know you're hearing the truth, there's no doubt.

Essentially, you're afraid that they're doing what they're doing, that they're doing it well, and that they're doing it better than you are.

And when I think of these people, I'm filled with pride, not just with any feeling of heroism.

As long as they have been here for the past four years, they have been here for all the right reasons. They have been responsible members of this community, and it's about time they were recognized for it.

The most important lesson I've learned is that I'm not there. I'm not there for the people who are there, I'm not there for myself, and I'm not there for the people who are there.

Most importantly, be nice to upperclassmen girls. You don't know the ones who are going to help you get through the most important years of your life. If you don't want to be one of them, you don't get to go to college with them, and you don't have to go to college with them.

Even if you are, even if the hottest guy in the junior class is calling you "sweetheart," you're the only one who's going to help you get through the next four years. They have no choice, because you have no choice.

As I look back on the last four years, I am filled with a silly sort of nostalgia. I know I will never be the same again.

Everything you ever wanted to know about girls...about boys.

Danille cooks for Pieces to The Tattoo

I am one of the newest vocalists in the band. I joined less than a year ago. The band consists of five members, and the music we play is a mix of rock, punk, and new wave.

I love to write and perform songs that express my emotions and experiences. I have always enjoyed playing the guitar and writing lyrics.

As a solo artist, I have released several albums and have won several awards for my music. I have also collaborated with other artists on various projects.

I believe in the power of music to inspire and connect people. I hope to continue making music that resonates with my fans and leaves a lasting impact.
