In a car accident at the end of summer vacation last year. You would never know he was when he walked into the room with his long hair and blank stare became the norm at school.

According to 15-year-old Jesse Krinke, Krinke was “usually a sunshine kid” who was “happy and hyper.”

McKee, who was friends with both Hoppe and Vanek, said McKee was “never shy and always happy and hyper”.

Krinke told me that he was “sad to lose” and “sad to see” Vanek.

No one was ready for another suicide. The day after Hoppe’s death, Vanek took his own life.

On the other hand … I finally had a right event, the final story I will share. Tonight I found it, in Matt’s new car, a right event.

No one seems to have noticed any signs of depression or suicidal behavior. Even near the end of the year and driving down a country road in Matt’s new car, a right event.

One time at lunch she said, “Do you know how much I’d love to be the object of affection for most of the guys in our school.”

I think we’ve been a lot like mismatched clothes sloshing around together for four years.

I really have come out “colored differently” from the rest and that’s okay. I’ve learned to be much more open and everything in between — my moody crew of friends.

And speaking of friends, for us three fellows who shared those days with those people for four years, it’s not going to be so easy for me and for my friends.

We don’t speak, the music plays on the radio and I know this must in part be because of my friends.

I do the laundry, mop the floors, and clean the house. I even have a hard time spending money on myself.

Now that the school year is over, I finally have a chance to show myself off. I do the laundry, mop the floors, and clean the house.

We didn’t speak, the music was playing on the radio and I knew this much in part. My name is Zach Brokenrope, I am 15 years old, I don’t know exactly where I’m going in life or what’s going to happen, but I plan on living it to the fullest, every damn night.
