School board grapples with poor test scores

BY JOE WILBUR

Though more students are taking Advanced Placement classes, some teachers say that labeling the results as failures is unwarranted.

The students, the teachers, the parents, and the administrators at Bristol Eastern High School are all excited about the results of their AP classes this year, which show a marked increase in the number of students who took the AP exams.

"We're expanding the pool of students who are taking AP classes," said AP English teacher Steve Traverso. "And that's a good thing." The school says that 20% of the student body took AP classes this year, compared to 10% last year.

For instance, more students are taking AP classes in the sciences.

"We're seeing a real push this year," said teacher Matt Berg.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

But the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.

And the push is not just for the students.

"We're seeing a push from the administration," said principal Kevin Traverso.