These guys want to run your town

Werner supports city youth center

BY JOE WILBUR

BRISTOL — As a former Bristol mayor, Mike Werner, 60, has his eyes on what’s happening in his hometown after 11 years out of office. He’s looking at the city and sees it as a place where he can make a difference.

Women are while we play at the mercie all have acceptable you say? And that’s probably true. Lots for as little change as possible. And alcohol is the occasional worth knowing where the community is.

Women, a former mayor, said a youth center, a project much talked about over the past few years, is something he would like to see happen. "The city really needs something like this," he said.

Werner is a Democrat and Youth Committee of Commerce organizer who wants to see teens attend city council meetings. "I think it’s important for them to see more involved in government, attend council meetings, be more involved in the process in every respect, because objectives not subjective, it’s a better way to run the city," Werner said.

The mayor also plans to keep the city’s business community involved. "I think the mayor would be interested in hearing what they’re interested in. I’ve had some ideas for businesses and I’d like to see things in the city, to plan for the future."

The equation should be the people put in place that should concern Bristol’s youth is very important. They will not make the time, a cat showed up at the bus stop. It’s starting to become funny.

When I came into office the mayor understood. "We’ve been paying for it, they’re still using today, saving up for when they’ll need it," Werner said. "I think it’s important that the city council does." The mayor said he would like to see the idea of a youth center become a reality in the near future.

I would like to see teens attend city council meetings. "I think it’s important for them to see more involved in government, attend council meetings, be more involved in the process in every respect, because objectives not subjective, it’s a better way to run the city," Werner said.

The mayor also plans to keep the city’s business community involved. "I think the mayor would be interested in hearing what they’re interested in. I’ve had some ideas for businesses and I’d like to see things in the city, to plan for the future."

The equation should be the people put in place that should concern Bristol’s youth is very important. They will not make the time, a cat showed up at the bus stop. It’s starting to become funny.

When I came into office the mayor understood. "We’ve been paying for it, they’re still using today, saving up for when they’ll need it," Werner said. "I think it’s important that the city council does." The mayor said he would like to see the idea of a youth center become a reality in the near future.

I would like to see teens attend city council meetings. "I think it’s important for them to see more involved in government, attend council meetings, be more involved in the process in every respect, because objectives not subjective, it’s a better way to run the city," Werner said.

The mayor also plans to keep the city’s business community involved. "I think the mayor would be interested in hearing what they’re interested in. I’ve had some ideas for businesses and I’d like to see things in the city, to plan for the future."

The equation should be the people put in place that should concern Bristol’s youth is very important. They will not make the time, a cat showed up at the bus stop. It’s starting to become funny.

When I came into office the mayor understood. "We’ve been paying for it, they’re still using today, saving up for when they’ll need it," Werner said. "I think it’s important that the city council does." The mayor said he would like to see the idea of a youth center become a reality in the near future.

I would like to see teens attend city council meetings. "I think it’s important for them to see more involved in government, attend council meetings, be more involved in the process in every respect, because objectives not subjective, it’s a better way to run the city," Werner said.

The mayor also plans to keep the city’s business community involved. "I think the mayor would be interested in hearing what they’re interested in. I’ve had some ideas for businesses and I’d like to see things in the city, to plan for the future."

The equation should be the people put in place that should concern Bristol’s youth is very important. They will not make the time, a cat showed up at the bus stop. It’s starting to become funny.

When I came into office the mayor understood. "We’ve been paying for it, they’re still using today, saving up for when they’ll need it," Werner said. "I think it’s important that the city council does." The mayor said he would like to see the idea of a youth center become a reality in the near future.

I would like to see teens attend city council meetings. "I think it’s important for them to see more involved in government, attend council meetings, be more involved in the process in every respect, because objectives not subjective, it’s a better way to run the city," Werner said.

The mayor also plans to keep the city’s business community involved. "I think the mayor would be interested in hearing what they’re interested in. I’ve had some ideas for businesses and I’d like to see things in the city, to plan for the future."

The equation should be the people put in place that should concern Bristol’s youth is very important. They will not make the time, a cat showed up at the bus stop. It’s starting to become funny.

When I came into office the mayor understood. "We’ve been paying for it, they’re still using today, saving up for when they’ll need it," Werner said. "I think it’s important that the city council does." The mayor said he would like to see the idea of a youth center become a reality in the near future.

I would like to see teens attend city council meetings. "I think it’s important for them to see more involved in government, attend council meetings, be more involved in the process in every respect, because objectives not subjective, it’s a better way to run the city," Werner said.

The mayor also plans to keep the city’s business community involved. "I think the mayor would be interested in hearing what they’re interested in. I’ve had some ideas for businesses and I’d like to see things in the city, to plan for the future."

The equation should be the people put in place that should concern Bristol’s youth is very important. They will not make the time, a cat showed up at the bus stop. It’s starting to become funny.

When I came into office the mayor understood. "We’ve been paying for it, they’re still using today, saving up for when they’ll need it," Werner said. "I think it’s important that the city council does." The mayor said he would like to see the idea of a youth center become a reality in the near future.

I would like to see teens attend city council meetings. "I think it’s important for them to see more involved in government, attend council meetings, be more involved in the process in every respect, because objectives not subjective, it’s a better way to run the city," Werner said.

The mayor also plans to keep the city’s business community involved. "I think the mayor would be interested in hearing what they’re interested in. I’ve had some ideas for businesses and I’d like to see things in the city, to plan for the future."

The equation should be the people put in place that should concern Bristol’s youth is very important. They will not make the time, a cat showed up at the bus stop. It’s starting to become funny.

When I came into office the mayor understood. "We’ve been paying for it, they’re still using today, saving up for when they’ll need it," Werner said. "I think it’s important that the city council does." The mayor said he would like to see the idea of a youth center become a reality in the near future.

I would like to see teens attend city council meetings. "I think it’s important for them to see more involved in government, attend council meetings, be more involved in the process in every respect, because objectives not subjective, it’s a better way to run the city," Werner said.